- For general issues, ICMG regulations will apply.
- For technical issues, the regulations of the relevant IF will apply.

7. Technical organisation

The FEP, under the supervision of the Technical Delegate of the CMSB, is responsible for the technical organization and running of Bowls Sports competitions during the Tarragona XVIII Mediterranean Games 2018.

7.1 Special procedures for the development of the competition

Any problems that may arise before or during events will be resolved by the Competition Management in accordance with rules of the ICMG and the relevant International Federations in force on 1 January 2018, except for special exemptions authorized by the ICMG.

Specific arrangements for the organization of Bowls Sports competitions will be made according to the number of participants.

7.1.1 Pétanque: men's and women's doubles

The teams are divided by draws into groups of four, or groups according to the number of countries entered, with seeded players determined according to the ranking of the last world championship.

With up to eight registered teams, the competitions are held in the form of a round robin. Beyond that, the group system applies.

a) Group system:

Within each group, the teams compete in the first match by draw.

In the second match, the winners play against each other, and the losers play against each other. The winner of the winners' match qualifies for the quarterfinals at the top of the group and the loser of the losers' match is eliminated.

The two other teams face each other in a play-off, where the winner, in turn, qualifies for the quarterfinals as the second in the group, and the loser is eliminated.

In the quarterfinals, the first team in one group plays the second in another group, and the winners advance to the semi-finals according to a pre-established table. There are then two finals: one for the bronze for the losers, and one for the gold for the winners.

The games are played to 13 points but with a maximum time limit according to the provisions of the international rules of the FIPJP if none of the teams reaches this score within the regulation time: one hour plus two supplementary throws.

b) Group formula:

In each group, every team plays all the other teams.

The semi-finals pit the first team of one group against the second of another group, with the winners going through to the final. There are then two finals: one for the bronze medal for the losers, and one for the gold medal for the winners.

The games are played to 13 points but with a maximum time limit according to the provisions of the international rules of the FIPJP if none of the teams reaches this score within the regulation time: one hour plus two supplementary throws.

7.1.2 Pétanque: Men's and women's precision shooting

All athletes taking part in a qualifying event whose ranking is established according to the rules in effect for the World Shooting Championship, depending on the number of competitors registered:

- The top four qualify for the quarterfinals, ranked 1 to 4.

The following eight take part in a second qualifying event, the results of which are added to those of the first event. The four leaders then qualify for the quarterfinals, ranked 5 to 8.

The final table is as follows:

A : 1 vs 8                      A vs B
 B : 4 vs 5

The finals are held for the gold medal between the winners and for the bronze medal between the losers.

C : 3 vs 6                      C vs D
 D : 2 vs 7

Or:

- The first two qualify for the semi-finals, taking rankings 1 and 2.

The next eight take part in a second qualifying event, the results of which are added to those of the first event. The top two qualify for the semi-finals, taking ranks 3 and 4.

The qualifiers compete in the semi-finals: number 1 against number 4, and number 2 against number 3. Then two finals are held, one for the bronze medal between the two losers and one for the gold medal between the two winners.

7.1.3 Bocce: Men's and women's progressive throwing

All the athletes take part in two qualifying events, the results of which are cumulative for each of them. The playing order is determined by a draw for the first round. The second round follows the reverse order of the results of the first.

The top four scores qualify, ranked from 1 to 4 according to their scores. In the event of a tie, the person who achieved the highest score in a round is ranked first; if there is still a tie situation, a 'sudden death' shoot-out is organized.

The qualifiers then compete in play-offs depending on the number of competitors entered:

- In the quarterfinals, according to the following table:

A : 1 vs 8

A vs B

B : 4 vs 5

The final for the gold medal is held between the two winners and for the bronze medal between the two losers.

C : 3 vs 6

C vs D

D : 2 vs 7

- Directly to semi-finals: 1 against 4 and 2 against 3. Then the final for the gold medal is held between the two winners and for the bronze medal between the two losers.

7.1.4 Bocce: Men's and women's precision shooting

In groups of four, the athletes take part in two qualifying events, the results of which are cumulative for each of them. The division into the two groups and the order of play are determined by drawing lots.

The 4 or 8 best scores qualify, ranked as 1 to 4 or 1 to 8 depending on their totals. In the event of a tie, the person who achieved the highest score in a round is ranked first; if there is still a tie situation, a 'sudden death' shoot-out is organized.

The qualifiers then compete in the play-offs, depending on the number of competitors entered:

- In the quarterfinals, according to the following table:

With up to eight registered teams, the competitions are held in the form of a round robin. Beyond that, the group system will apply.

a) Group System:

Within each group, the teams compete in the first match by draw.

In the second match, the winners play against each other, and the losers play against each other. The winner of the winners' match qualifies for the semi-finals at the top of the group, and the loser of the losers' match is eliminated.

The two other teams face each other in a play-off, where the winner, in turn, qualifies for the semi-finals as second in the group, and the loser is eliminated.

In the quarter-finals, the first team in one group plays the second in another group, and the winners advance to the semi-finals according to a pre-established table. There are then two finals: one for the bronze medal between the losers, and one of the gold medal between the winners.

The games are played to a maximum of 12 points or one hour, to the throw in progress at the point of completion. In the case of a tie, a supplementary throw is played.
